SUPPLEMENT TO 25X1A
REPORT NO. [REDACTED]

1. In Autumn 1951 the creation was to have taken place of a National Front grouping neo-Fascists such as Valerio Borghese, Carlo Del Croix and others of the former Italian Social Republic, and the Monarchists of the Monarchist National Front recently created by Deputies Giovanni Francesco Alliata di Montereale and Tommaso Leone Marchesano.
2. Through the use of the National Front, Valerio Borghese intends to create a political movement grouping all extreme rightist elements. At the beginning it will not be necessary to dissolve the various movements which shall belong to the Front, since the latter will have a purely electoral function. Later, when it shall have affirmed itself in the 1953 general elections, the time will come to create an actual party of Monarchist-Fascist inspiration.
3. Precisely because of its Monarchist tendencies, the majority of the extreme right and leaders of the Italian Social Movement are opposed to the Front and would like to induce Borghese to renounce his project. On the other hand, others such as Del Croix want the participation of even Giuseppe Bottai and Dino Grandi, called "the men of 25 July 1943".
4. This will be difficult, since Borghese is intransigent on this point. "Monarchists, yes; traitors, no!" he recently stated at a meeting of various personalities on the proposed creation of the Front.
